

We are happy to pour you a splash of a beer before ordering a FULL pour. If you'd like to try several, might we suggest a flight!

16oz / 8oz / 4oz / Pitcher / 16 oz Can (to go)

1. Month of Sundays - Flanders-style Sour Red - 6.0%

$ - / 7 / 4 / - / 7

Fashioned after the sour beers originating from the West Flanders region of Belgium, this beer was brewed many Sundays ago and left to age in barrels. A dark reddish-brown sour, it is jammy, slightly acetic, and red wine-like.

2. Wee Scunner - Scottish Red - 5.1%

$ 7 / 4.5 / 2.5 / 24 / 4.5

A malty, full-bodied ale reminiscent of an English-style brown ale. Lightly roasted malts lend chocolate and coffee notes as well as a pleasantly parching quality, keeping this beer highly sessionable. The beer name is a Scottish expression for a small nuisance.

3. Meal Ticket - Imperial Stout - 8.1%

$ 8 / 5 / 2.75 / 28 / 5

If you're looking for a nightcap at the end of the party, we have just what you're looking for. Decadence on blast. Rich deep cocoa, caramel, and coffee flavors and aromas. Robust and boozy with an amalgam of complexity and richness that coats the tongue and back of the throat.

4. Earl of Hell's Waistcoat - Black IPA - 7.0%

$ 7 / 4.5 / 2.5 / 24 / 4.5

Also sometimes referred to as an American Black Ale or Cascadian Dark Ale, our Black IPA is dry & light in body, and characterized by a balance of gentle roasted malt flavor and piney hop flavor and aroma from Cascade, Chinook, and Columbus hops from Billy Goat Hop Farm in Montrose.

5. Geriatrique (jair-e-at-REEK) - Lime Lavender Hard Seltzer - 4.2%

$ 7 / 4.5 / 2.5 / 24 / 4.5

Grandma fought brewing our first seltzer tooth and nail, but we won her over by letting her do it her way. Fermented with lime and lavender, this seltzer drinks almost like the white wine spritzers she loves so much.

6. Barney Kool Breeze - Blackberry Cobbler Sour - 4.3%

$ 8 / 5 / 2.75 / 28 / 5

We brought back the first in a series of beers honoring the late great Ol' Dirty Bastard. This tart wheat beer is accented by an addition of over 130 lbs. of blackberry this time around, while biscuit malt, brown sugar, vanilla, and ginger provide the graham cracker effect. A few of these light, refreshing purple dranks and you'll be ready to shimmy.

Gluten Reduced CONTAINS LACTOSE

7. Lethologica - Baltic Porter - 8.3%

$ 8 / 5 / 2.75 / 28 / 5

Much lower roast and smoother than an Imperial Stout, and fruitier than a typical Porter. More like a higher alcohol Schwarzbier or Black Lager. The beer name means the inability to remember or put your finger on the right word.

8. Bourbon Barrel-Aged Solid Muldoon - Belgian Quad - 10.1%

$ - / 7 / 4 / / 7

Big bourbon aromas of vanilla, caramel, and chocolate frame intense malt up front. The palate follows suit with vanilla and light coconut notes accenting the dark fruit notes of the base beer. Think a bourbon-soaked chocolate-covered cherry..

9. Frog You Up - Red Wine Barrel-Aged Belgian Dubbel - 6.5%

$ 9 / 5.5 / 3 / 32 / 5.5

Our Belgian Dubbel is a medium-bodied, deep amber ale that showcases complex flavors and aromas of caramel and chocolate malt sweetness along with subdued fruity esters of raisins and plums, which dance across the tongue along with the red wine accents from the barrel. The beer name is a Flemish expression meaning to make you feel better.

10. Foggy Memory - Hazy IPA - 6.7%

$ 8 / 5 / 2.75 / 28 / 5

Kids these days probably think they invented those NEIPAs everyone is tripping over themselves for, but me and Pappy were drinking them when those whippersnappers weren't even a glimmer in their mama's eyes. Easy drinkin' extravaganza of Cashmere, Comet, Taiheke, and Motueka hops they were! Hazy to all hell. Deep yellow like a fresh banana. Thick white head you could float a hay penny on! A smorgasbord of tropical flavors! Glad to see some things are still made like they used to be.

11. Twisted Enkel - Belgian Singel - 5.0%

$ 7 / 4.5 / 2.5 / 24 / 4.5

A refreshingly bitter and very dry Belgian ale. First Gold and Saaz hops provide fruity and spicy complements to the Belgian yeast character. This beer is probably what the monks themselves drink on a daily basis.

12. Solid Muldoon - Belgian Quadrupel - 8.6%

$ - / 5.5 / 3 / - / 5.5

Named after quite possibly the most infamous hoax in Colorado history (and a subsequent former bar in Durango), this Belgian Quadrupel, or Belgian Dark Strong Ale, is the real deal. A full-bodied and high ABV dark amber ale with flavors and aromas of caramel, dark sugar, and raisins.

13. Wildpinkler - Dark German Wheat - 5.1%

$ 7 / 4.5 / 2.5 / 24 / 4.5

With flavor and aroma characteristics from the Hefeweizen yeast strain (banana, bubblegum, clove) but a darker malt profile, this amber/brown ale can be considered German wheat beer for the cooler months. The beer name is a German work for a public urinator.

14. Geborgenheit (gah-BOAR-ghen-hite) - German Wheat & Oat Beer - 5.8%

$ 7 / 4.5 / 2.5 / 24 / 4.5

Named for the town of Kottbus in Germany, a Kottbusser differs from other wheat beers such as Hefeweizens, as a result of being fermented with a neutral yeast strain. A touch of molasses dries the beer out slightly while providing a bit of complexity. The beer name is a German word that translates to being completely present in the moment. Gluten Reduced

15. Wobbly Pop - American Barleywine - 10.9%

$ - / 6 / 3.5 / - / 6

A well-hopped interpretation of the strongest of the English Strong Ales. Amarillo, Nugget, and Columbus hops provide additional balance to the sweetness of this American counterpart to the more sweet British version. The beer name is an Old West term for beer.

16. Yule Hole - Blonde Ale w/ Cherry - 5.0%

$ 8 / 5 / 2.75 / 28 / 5

We took a basic blonde ale and spruced it up with 170 lbs of cherries. Easy peasy cherry squeezey The beer name is the last hole to which one is able to stretch their belt at a Christmas dinner. Gluten Reduced

17. Beau Geste (bow jest)- French Amber Lager - 5.6%

$ 7 / 4.5 / 2.5 / 24 / 4.5

Our Biere de Printemps ("Spring Beer") is a historical French beer style that is deep amber in color, creamy, and easy to drink with a gentle maltiness and underlying fruitiness from the French hops. The beer name is a French expression for a noble gesture in form but meaningless in substance. Gluten Reduced
